NEW YORK CITY – New York City police officers fired a total of 11 shots at a man wielding a stolen knife in Harlem on Friday night, and the knife-wielding man was killed, police sources said. Police sources said the weapon was a 12-inch knife with a blade about three inches long. The sources said the police officers followed the man, 25, into an apartment building at 132nd Street and Frederick Douglass Boulevard, which is in East Harlem. The sources said the police officers, who had not seen the suspect earlier, decided to approach him after he passed the officers, and that several of the shots were fired from their guns. The man was struck multiple times, killing him, sources said. The mayor said the incident was being investigated and that police Commissioner Bill Bratton would be available for questions. The website of the New York Daily News reported that the man who was shot and killed was known to police. The Daily News reported that the man, who was in his 20s, was hit while attacking a police officer. An unidentified witness who lives across the hall from the incident was quoted by the Daily News as saying that the man came over to him and that the man appeared to be

The ideal way to help you find a date on time! The world population is growing at considerable rates, in spite of all violence and conflicts that occur on a daily basis, not to mention natural causes of death or diseases. Some are unlucky at finding a pair, even a simple date. There are various dating and social networks online specialized in this regard, with applications like Speed Dating Software Serial Key offering an example of how such algorithms of match-making work. Based on a random algorithm After a short and uneventful setup process you're free to run the application and check your luck at finding a date. The main window is pretty simple, split into two columns dedicated to both genders, with a few requirement fields for personal details and contact info. There's also a sample file you can load to quickly get the hang of it. Note that the application does not depend or require any online services to perform matching. Sadly, it's all done according to a random algorithm, so there's a high chance there's no girl or guy out there for you, regardless of your qualities. Poor set of features In order for everything to work, you need to have at least one entry in each panel. There's the possibility to import a dating list, but it needs to be under the only format the application supports, namely SPD. This has a major impact on practicality, because whether you like it or not, you depend on the main window to create lists. These can also be saved to use later on. On the other hand, it takes little time to set up all necessary details. Requirement fields only ask for first and last name, phone, email, as well as a field for additional information. Differentiation between genders is done according to the panel you insert data in, so be careful throughout the creation process. Hitting the button to create a matching list brings up a new window with a few more options to manage. Helpful details make sure you don't get stuck along the way. The new list is fully created according to your specifications, with a field asking what info to use, as well as another panel to wrap it all up in an appealing invitation or text. There's no export option so you need to manually copy the list to a text editor for post-processing. In conclusion Taking everything into consideration, we can say that Speed Dating Software is not really what you expected to find, acting more like a simulator, since all data you write fully depends on you.
