The Guitar Stomps package contains very simple stomp box FX (Octaver, Bitcrusher, Chorus and Tremolo). The interest is that it can be useful to have that kind of small one purpose effects sometimes. They don't consume much CPU either. And the octaver isn't something you find that easily, I think, and I believe this one is quite good. If you are looking for a complex stomp box like the Boss CS-3, check out the New Wave Pack from MFBG. It's like Boss's metal version, but even better. I love it. The pedal is a very good one. And it costs $19.99. If you like MFBG, I believe you will like this one too. It's a good choice if you want a stomp box that is real vintage, or if you are a beginner. Very cool pedals. There are a few other ways to do the same thing, but for this I will tell you what I use and what worked best for me. This is the one thing that I had to figure out. Why is there a difference? The efficacy of botulinum toxin therapy in the treatment of isolated benign vocal fold paralysis. Bilateral vocal fold paralysis has been reported to be less commonly encountered than unilateral vocal fold paralysis in patients undergoing upper airway endoscopy. For this reason, isolated benign vocal fold paralysis may be associated with more complications than isolated vocal fold paralysis. The purpose of this study was to investigate the efficacy of botulinum toxin in the treatment of isolated benign vocal fold paralysis. The authors performed a retrospective review of their patients who underwent a total of 69 injections of botulinum toxin for isolated benign vocal fold paralysis between April 1997 and November 2001. Injection sites included the vocal process, the posterior cord, the thyroarytenoid muscle, and the cricoarytenoid muscle. All patients were evaluated pre- and postinjection and had their Voice Handicap Index (VHI) and grade of paralysis as recorded. They had VHI and grade of paralysis evaluated at follow-up visits at postinjection months 1, 3, and 6. Patients were also assessed by voice evaluation. At follow-up visits, there was a significant improvement in the VHI score and grade of paralysis (P Confirmed!!!)
