Christmas is coming and we are prepared to bring you a great deal. For one time (for all you gamers as well) we are offering you a complete pack featuring Plugins from among our favorite developers: The. Windows; MacOS; Linux.Q: How to use "strange" characters in inputs in html? I have an html form with the following fields: So, the first is for what page I'm on. The second is for what category I'm on (just if more than one). I also want to have an URL bar, so the page above takes you to /news.php?page=2&catid[]=3. Now the problem is: If I type 2 into the catid[] field, then it also puts 3 into the /news.php URL bar. I don't know why it does this. How can I stop it from doing this? A: This is because PHP treats & as a separator between parameters. Your code should be: And if it's going to send the value as it is, there's no way to stop it. Check out these links: PHP manual A: & separates parameters in a URI. If you want to use catid[] in a value that's not a number, you'll need to use preg_match instead of a simple php value evaluator.
