Estimate is an easy to use quoting and estimating tool for estimating the cost of your home improvement or work project. With the estimation wizard, you can create one-off estimates or compound estimates, for example, estimations for a home improvement project with multiple sub-jobs. You can use predefined and shareable price lists to quickly generate estimates for projects. Estimate offers two user interfaces and can easily be extended with new features and functionalities in the future. Most important features: ■ Estimating wizard to create estimates with one or multiple sub-jobs. ■ Extensions are easily integrated ■ Advanced price list manager ■ Extensible with new features ■ Automatically backup all data ■ Save estimates to your computer so you can restore quickly ■ Export predefined price lists to excel ■ Export dynamically generated price lists to excel ■ Email the estimate as PDF ■ Create a PDF invoice by emailing the estimate ■ Add item and quantity information ■ Excel export of the estimated price and quantity for each job ■ Undo and redo ■ Calculate compound prices ■ Preview price list before saving ■ 1GB of free space available Estimate lets you create compound estimates, to update price lists or to reload an estimate using the latest prices. Item prices and quantities can be entered to 4 decimal places (hundredths of a cent). If you enter a price or quantity to more than 4 decimal places it will be rounded to 4 decimal places. Line totals in all estimates are rounded to the cent (2 decimal places). The application lets you create multiple job groups and set job estimates if you want. You can create any number of groups, which are used to keep related jobs together. Each group can contain any number of jobs. More features and tools Each job is a costing of quantity, the price of items chosen from your price lists. You must open and create at least one price list before you can start costing jobs. The application lets you backup all data that you're working on and save it to your computer so you can restore it fast. All in all, Estimate is a very nice application that can be used for anything from costing the largest of business projects to pricing small jobs for tradesmen.
