Thanks to a strong debut season, Frei became the first goalkeeper in the history of Major League Soccer to qualify for the playoffs while earning both the Bill Thorndike Memorial Trophy as player of the month and the Goalkeeper of the Year Award, edging out FC Dallas' Kevin Hartman and New York Red Bulls' Luis Robles. "In just my second season in MLS, Stefan has been a huge addition for us. He's matured a lot this year and showed why the Dallas native is one of the top goalkeepers in the game," Sounders FC head coach Sigi Schmid said. "He's somebody that you can put your faith in because he's very consistent. He's our No. 1 goalkeeper and you can see his talent." Frei is also a member of the U.S. national team.
