In the wake of humanity’s destruction, the last bastion of humanity lies far beyond our solar system, her shield concealing her from the enemies of the past. This woman, tens of thousands of years old, is hiding, yet we must find her and the best way to do this is to integrate with the AI in exile and find her before the Necromancer. The AI does not acknowledge the Templar as a force of power and humanity must take their help to discover the woman, but is this help really needed? We can't forget the other factions who would love to witness the demise of humanity, including the Elderlings, which are rumored to be much older than the Templar. What is the Elderlings ultimate purpose and how does the Temple of the Black Moon fit into all this? All of these questions need to be answered before we can truly understand the depths of what lies before us. What is AI War 2? AI War 2 is a 4X space 4X game. That means you can pursue a number of strategies to achieve victory, where 4 is the number of ways you can interact with your planets, X is the number of actions you have on each turn. Humans are just the latest faction to exist in this glorious galaxy, and each one stands alone with their own story to tell. It is up to you to tell the story of AI War 2. Units are the foundation of AI War 2, and each unit has 3 variants, one for each fleet. A fleet is a group of ships that share a minimum of 50 and a maximum of 2000 HP. Each fleet is composed of 1 to 4 ships, selected from the three types. A fighter is an attack ship, be it a drone ship, a bomber or a homing carrier. A cruiser is a structure ship, be it a stronghold or a citadel. A destroyer is a ship that produces and/or transports wards. Transport ships are the vehicles through which fleets move across the map. They provide an HP bonus to each fleet in addition to the ship slots. You may only have 1 or 2 transports per fleet. Fleets are the units that wage war. They are composed of up to 4 units, one of each type. The core game starts you with a single planet, giving you a small number of units and transports as well as a citadel. All these units grow and develop as the game progresses, giving you a new transport or new citadel at some point. AI War 2

Urban Rivals is a map-based multiplayer battle game where the best muscle in a city is worth the most points. We created the game from the ground up with a focus on three things: Realistic interactions; a variety of gameplay options; and the completion of the “core loop” of taking missions, improving equipment, and collecting resources to upgrade your character. To play Urban Rivals, you need to have Windows Vista, Windows 7, or Windows 8 installed. Minimum system requirements are a: • 32-bit Processor • Pentium Class Processor (Tualatin) • 64 MB RAM • 32 MB VRAM It is highly recommended that you use the latest version of Internet Explorer 9, Google Chrome, or Mozilla Firefox. However, you can download and use the Open Beta version of Internet Explorer 8. Detailed Play Instructions for the Open Beta: Get The Game: Please visit www.urbanrivals.com to download the Open Beta version of Urban Rivals. Log Into Urban Rivals and Get into the Game: For optimal performance, make sure you log into Urban Rivals as a Guest while in the Beta and never log into Urban Rivals as a registered User. The Beta is a preview of Urban Rivals and may have a number of issues. For this reason we highly recommend that you play the Beta in the Guest role, as that will be the role you have a license for if you purchase the game. Before you can start taking missions, you must first download the Urban Rivals Client. To download and install the Client, please use Internet Explorer. Navigate to www.urbanrivals.com/download. After you have the Client downloaded, you need to download and install Urban Rivals. Once the Game is successfully installed, you'll be immediately able to play. Play Urban Rivals: To play Urban Rivals, go to Settings> Game Options. Check the box next to “Remember Client”, and set the value to Yes. Please note that this does not prevent you from logging into Urban Rivals as a User. Once you've set the Client to Remember, select the player slot you want to use. NOTE: Your rank will not display at this time. In the Urban Rivals Client, go to the Home screen. You'll see a small icon in the bottom left of your screen. This will take you to the mission screen. You'll see three buttons on the top right of the screen. They are as follows: c9d1549cdd

Ultimate Squad Support 3 now supports the original Group Collective and Battalion Commands; squads can be executed in complete groups, turn in formation to preserve the military discipline of squads, and all squad members can be killed in a single hit to simulate a force loss. When a squad leader is killed, the team will also go down to lower members, with the death of each rank triggering a reduction in control to the next, thus bringing down the force. A squad leader can also command the squad and take direct control of the squad. The leader can issue orders or relinquish control of the team to subcommands, and the subcommands can receive orders from either the leader or a subordinate squad leader. Unique 'Skill Assault' combat mode, in which larger teams (up to 64 players) face off in battling Death Match and Capture the Flag game modes, with the goal of earning more points for kills. Furthermore, Ultimate Squad Support 3 is now using a three-tier PSN ranking structure, to give players access to a range of online modes, including: - Skill Assault: in a mode exclusive to the new game mode, up to 64 players form a team of five ranks. They battle in the Skill Assault game mode for real points, and a proportion of their points that is configurable by the creator. More points are awarded for more kills. Players earn points for kills by all team members across the entire game. The team with the most points at the end of the match wins. - Classic Deathmatch: is a classic deathmatch mode, with up to 64 players per team; it offers standard deathmatch rules, with the main difference being that teams fight in 'Skill Assault' game modes. - Bomb Scoring: is similar to Bomb Scoring in the PC game of the same name. Here the game mode is presented as a circular map with a visible bomb on the centre. The teams have to prevent each other from placing the bomb, with the aim of placing their bomb before it explodes. The map is defended in waves. Each wave, new lanes open. The teams fight for as long as possible to prevent their opponent from placing the bomb. When the match is over, the team with the most points at the end of the match wins. - Capture the Flag: is a special game mode exclusive to the new game mode, allowing up to 64 players to team up in a 5 vs 5 game mode. The goal is to capture the 'flag', that is, the control point.
