Credits Thanks to Oleksandr Korolev Own coins. Stop. It's like you want the screen to explode. Wow, what a sight you've presented there, in this quiet moment of your life. You've achieved something really marvelous, after so many failures and false starts: You've unlocked a new level in the game. I'm sure you were expecting it, but it's so beautiful to see it. You only knew you could do it because you were eager to win the game. And now you are relaxed, aren't you? Relieved. You're on the way to the next level, and the next one, and the next one after that... I bet you're feeling good about yourself right now, aren't you? You're so proud of yourself! But no, no, no. Remember, you're not on the way to a better game. You're on the way to your own game, the one that only you and your friends can play together, the one that will feel so much better because it's not a game at all but a community. I know what you're thinking. "What is this guy talking about?" "I already have a game!" But you don't! I'm not talking about real games, like Smashbro, or Mario, or Tetris. I'm talking about a game that has existed since the beginning of time, in every form, in every era. It's the game I like to call "gaming." I know that you're thinking "This guy's absolutely certifiable, man!" But that's ok. I'm not certifiable. I'm certifiable that you're certifiable. You see, you know that you're playing games all the time, even when you're not playing a game. And you're even tired of it. But even so, you don't even know that you're tired of it. You're too busy playing it. And here's where it gets even better. You've reached a point where a game, even if you're playing it, it d41b202975

are back!! Hello everybody, this week I present you with a great Gwent opportunity: A goblin queen attack below your keep!! The goblin leaves a pack of 1 to 3 coins (toward you) in the pouring rain. If you equip the goblins in the pack into your deck, every time you use your siege to remove 2 coins (toward you), you'll add 1 coin for the treasure you gain (toward you). With early goblins, you can easily get 4 coins (toward you) per turn. Let's say your coin gain per turn is 10 coins (toward you), and you pay 1 coin for the goblins, this means that your coin loss for each turn will be 9. If at a certain point you pay such a fortune (a 0.01 cent, I have a 10% payment) for the goblin or the coins, then you won't be able to sustain enough ongoing losses to make the coins worth it, so you can stop taking the coins away. So profit will only happen if you take coins away at the beginning, and then the ultimate payoff will be during the siege. So the question is this: What time spend is most cost efficient? Is it better to spend 8 billion coins to win a keep than 20 billion coins to lose a goblin, less than 50 coins/turn, three goblins, than 4G to win a goblin? Or is it better to spend the same 40 million coins to start a siege (that's still "cheaper" than digging a mine, on the other hand, with your very best deck a siege can sometimes happen in less turns than putting 5 goblins out, or putting 4 goblins out on a dry mine). Say you're in a 1v1 super high level, and you opponent is also a 1v1, and you use 2 siege, you opponent will lose that siege. But your opponent has no ways to win because of the gold cost he paid to put it out. What do you think? I'll do a few cheats and I'll be very fair about it. There's no need to be afraid to participate. I'll try to be as fair as possible. First as a goblin (the green cards): The gain is +7 (you gain 7 coins if you remove 7 coins, by siege) The loss is -0.3 (You lose 3 coins by siege) There
