The Democratic Republic of Congo's top opposition leader has been wounded in an attack on his motorcade by unidentified assailants. Kabila's convoy was hit at an army base in the country's central Kasai region. He was unharmed, but has been forced to cancel a planned trip to Brussels, according to a presidential adviser. On Monday, opposition leader Vital Kamerhe was ambushed while traveling with two DRC officials in the eastern province of North Kivu. The driver of the vehicle carrying Kamerhe and the two officials was also wounded. The officials were not hurt. Kamerhe narrowly missed death on Oct. 20 when a grenade was tossed at his motorcade in Kasai. He was hit in the arm by shrapnel, but his security was able to drive the vehicle to a nearby military hospital. At the time, the DRC's intelligence services said they had thwarted an attack targeting Kamerhe and several Congolese army officials. Kabila is holding power since he seized power in a coup in 2001. He ran for office as a presidential candidate in last year's elections, but was declared the winner amid massive fraud. Opp
