Prove that H is characteristic in G Let G be a group and H be a subgroup of G with finite index. Prove that H is characteristic in G My attempt: By the First Isomorphism Theorem, G/H is isomorphic to H. In general, H is normal, so G/H is abelian. The finite index of H is equivalent to the fact that there is some $k\in\mathbb{Z_+}$ such that $|G|=k|H|$. By Lagrange's theorem, $k|H|\in\mathbb{N}$. My questions: What are the other proofs? What's wrong with my proof? A: Your proof looks fine. It basically shows that the quotient G/H is a finite $|H|$-by-$|H|$ abelian group.

Such a group is in particular torsion and in this case, abelian implies it is trivial, i.e. equal to the group. --- title: "Delete server data" ms.reviewer: ms.author: v-lanac author: lanachin manager: serdars audience: ITPro ms.topic: article ms.prod: skype-for-business-itpro f1.keywords: - NOCSH localization_priority: Normal ms.collection: - IT_Skype16 - Strat_SB_Admin - IT_SB_Top - Strat_SB_Triggers description: "Use this policy

This book was written by Dr. Zhong and Dr. Xiao. Introduction The Chinese version of The Good Posture is a reference book on the "good" posture, which includes development techniques of the adult and pediatric good posture. This book was written by Dr. Zhong and Dr. Xiao. The good posture develops simultaneously with the growth of the body. With the formation and development of the skeletal system, the spine is highly flexible and well supported. With the length and weight of the body increased, the body also needs to adjust to the environment.

The spinal column gradually elongates and changes from a lordotic curve into a kyphotic curve. As a result, the pelvis is slightly lower than the plane of the spine and the abdominal cavity is expanded. The top part of the body is slightly elevated. Both feet are simultaneously fixed to the ground. A child learns these techniques at birth, and an adult knows them when he or she is old. Therefore, these techniques do not need to be learned as an adult. They can be learned by anyone in his or her twenties. In fact, everyone 6d1f23a050
